If you are like 85% of women around the world, you have experienced cellulite on your body. The prevalence of cellulite on women's bodies is because of the skin structure in their genetic makeup, as well as the female skin being generally thinner than male skin, allowing fat deposits to poke through more readily.

Unless you are among the few lucky women in whom cellulite does not naturally occur, you know that no one is immune to the body and self-image issues created by cellulite. However, there is now a new FDA-approved cellulite treatment that is changing lives for women permanently everywhere: Cellfina™

What is Cellfina™?

Cellfina™ is a new process for targeting cellulite that combines an accepted treatment approach with a new, proprietary technology. This innovation results in cellulite treatment that is delivered within a single doctor's visit and has been proven to last. In fact, Cellfina™ is the only proven method that treats the structural causes of cellulite with the longest clearance available today.

Why is Cellfina™ Ideal?

Treating cellulite with the Cellfina solution is a better option for a number of reasons:

Long lasting: Patients can experience relief from cellulite with over 90% satisfaction rate over two years.

FDA approved: The procedure has been tested and approved by the FDA.

Minimally invasive: Cellfina treatments are administered awake, with a small, needle-like device, rather than surgery.

Single treatment: With just one treatment, patients experience significant cellulite reduction.

Little or no downtime: Patients have the ability to return to work or family right away.

The Cellfina System is focused on treating the underlying structural makeup of cellulite. This allows your skin to relax back into its original, smooth condition. The system is absolutely safe when trained professionals perform the procedure.

Southwest Plastic Surgery is the first and only practice in El Paso and surrounding areas to offer Cellfina™. To book a consultation to learn more about Cellfina, call (915) 590-7900 and say Bye Bye to Cellulite.
