Southwest Plastic Surgery stays at the forefront of technological innovation. With highly qualified staff, they are committed to providing multiple treatments for the population they serve. To achieve this goal, the doctors of Southwest Plastic Surgery are involved in research and participate in annual national and international meetings to remain educated on new techniques and technologies that deliver optimal outcomes. This has allowed them to expand their list of services in order to offer more and focus on certain desires from patients in the region. New technologies and methods that have been included are: Picosure, the best tattoo removal laser, which can be done in as little as four treatments; Cellfina, the only long term solution for cellulite, approved by the FDA, done in less than an hour; Ulthera, a non-invasive rejuvenation for face and neck; and Vanquish, treating the circumference of the abdomen to melt fat away. Both Cellfina and Picosure are exclusively available at Southwest Plastic Surgery. With the most experienced providers, and personable atmosphere, look no further than Southwest Plastic Surgery to become the best version of you.
